Prosody Matters

Essays in Honour of Elisabeth Selkirk

Edited by Toni Borowsky, Shigeto Kawahara, Takahito Shinya and Mariko Sugahara

- a coherent, international collection of essays on a topic at the forefront of theoretical linguistics

The prosodic hierarchy, proposed and developed by Elisabeth O. Selkirk is an important area of research within phonology and its interface with the other components of the grammar. This collection of original articles, dedicated to Selkirk, addresses a range of key topics in the area, exploring the interactions of prosody in the grammar using evidence from many languages.
